250 D in a few hrs. Oh, right. Tivo is the absolute worst piece of shit in the world. Seriously, think about it. First of all, there are at least two Tivo models out there. One that uses the original code and one that uses the new code that they keep forcing people to pay for, both at the same price. All it takes is a little logic to figure out which Tivo to buy. At least 3 different HD boxes cost about $180, in addition to the $1,000+ HD cable box. Second of all, my first HD box was STILL in working condition. I can still use it. My first Tivo was STILL in working condition. I can still use it. Third, the Tivo interface sucks, no matter what they do to make it better. The UI is still hard to figure out. Even if you do figure it out, the UI is still frustrating and non-intuitive. Fourth, the new Tivo interface is garbage. The new interface is hard to use, and the new interface sucks because it takes so damn long to figure out. In short, the only thing you can do with a Tivo is watch a recorded show. Nothing else. The interface is all over the place, the software is half-assed, the recording features are primitive, and the UI is terrible. Tivo is the absolute worst piece of shit in the world.
